

The U.S. Navy In Vietnam press kit photograph list

18-0002-001	print 8x10 b&w	A U.S. Navy River Patrol Boat (PBR) speeds down the Bassac River during an Operation Game Warden patrol. The 31-foot fiberglass craft patrol the many waterways of the Mekong Delta and the Rung Sat Special Zone in an effort to prevent the Viet Cong moving supplies by water. They are also used to transport the SEALs and Vietnamese troops. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN)	XFV-2693-F-6-68
18-0002-002	print 8x10 b&w	Goes Aboard - A U.S. Navy river patrol boat (PBR) is lifted aboard Mobile Base II at Nha Be. The repair section completely repairs and overhauls the PBRs, as well as repairing damage to the fiberglass hulls of the 31-foot craft. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN). Ca. July 9, 1968.	XFV-2738-A-7-68
18-0002-003	print 8x10 b&w	Removes Pump - Engineman Third Class Kenneth Spurr of Houston, Texas, removes one of the water jet units from the stern of a U.S. Navy river patrol boat (PBR) aboard Mobile Base II. The Base contains all the equipment to completely repair and overhaul PBRs. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN). Ca. July 9, 1968.	XFV-2717-E-7-68
18-0002-004	print 8x10 b&w	Comes In - A UH-1B Navy helicopter comes in for a landing on Mobile Base II anchored in the Long Tau River at Nha Be, eight miles southeast of Saigon. Mobile Base II serves as a base for helicopters and river patrol boats. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN). Ca. July 9, 1968.	XFV-2715-G-7-68

18-0002-005	print 8x10 b&w	Anchored - The six units of Mobile Base II lie at anchor in the Long Tau River at Nha Be, Vietnam. The four units with superstructure measure 110 by 30 feet, while the two barge-like unites on each side are 90 by 28 feet. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN). Ca. July 9, 1968.	XFY-2716-E-7-68
18-0002-006	print 8x10 b&w	Armored Troop Carriers (ATCs) of the U.S. Navy's River Assault Flotilla One (TF-117) land troops of the U.S. Army's 9th Infantry Division for search and destroy operations conducted in the Mekong Delta by the Joint U.S. Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by PH2 Charles Hall, USN). June 1967.	XFV-1605-A-8-67
18-0002-007	print 8x10 b&w	Closes - The Command Communications Boat (CCB) [C-92-1], from which the operation is controlled, closes on two junks to check for possible enemy troops moving in or out of the landing area. After off loading troops, it is the taks of the River Assault Craft to blockade the waterways to prevent the enemy's waterborne movement. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by PH1 L.R. Robinson, USN). June 10, 1967.	XFV-1302-D-6-67
18-0002-008	print 8x10 b&w	[Command Communications Boat C-91-1 in the Joint U.S. Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force during the Vietnam War, Ca. 1967-1968.]
18-0002-009	print 8x10 b&w	[Barracks Craft APL-55, aka Repair, Berthing and Messing Barge YRBM-18, during the Vietnam War, ca. 1967-1968].

18-0002-010	print 8x10 b&w	Floating Medical Station - A U.S. Army "dustoff" helicopter sets down on the landing pad of a converted Navy armored troop carrier (ATC) to take on a patient during operations conducted by the joint U.S. Army-Navy Riverine Force in South Vietnam's Mekong Delta. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by J. French, J01, USN). August 1967.	XFV-1774-D-9-67
18-0002-011	print 8x10 b&w	Fire Mission - The Monitor [M-92-2], "Battleship of the U.S. Navy's River Assault Force", fires 40mm shells into an enemy position during operations in the Mekong Delta. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by PH1 L.R. Robinson, USN). June 10, 1967.	XFV-1289-A-6-67
18-0002-012	print 8x10 b&w	A Monitor [M-91-3] of the River Assault Flotilla One (TF-117) "props" the beach as the Navy river assault craft prepare to land embarked units of the US. 9th Infantry Division for search and destroy operations conducted in the Mekong Delta (28 July - 1 August 1967) by the joint U.S. Army-Navy Riverine Force. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by T.L. Lawson, PH2, USN). July 29, 1967.	XFV-1603-F-8-67
18-0002-013	print 8x10 b&w	Armored Troop Carriers (ATCs) steam along one of the many canals in the Mekong Delta of South Vietnam. The ATCs carry U.S. Navy personnel and Vietnamese Marines during efforts by River Assault Flotilla One to find and destroy Viet Cong elements in the Delta and Rung Sat Special Zone of South Vietnam.

18-0002-014	print 8x10 b&w	River Landing Ship - Carrying troops to the objective is the mission of the armored troop carrier (ATC) [T-112-3] used by the Navy's new River Assault Flotilla One in the Mekong Delta. The boat is a converted landing craft specifically outfitted for use on the rivers of Vietnam. Included in the ATC's armament is a 20mm cannon, two .50 caliber and four .30 caliber machine guns. The crew of seven also carry individual weapons. Fifty-six feet in length, the craft is powered by two diesel engines. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by G.D. Oson, PH1, USN). May 4, 1967.	XFV-1200-5-67
18-0002-015	print 8x10 b&w	Barracks, Command Post, Flagship - USS Benewah (APB-36) a self-propelled auxiliary barracks ship, lies in the Soi Rap River of the Rung Sat Special Zone with her assault boats alongside. Benewah is the flagship for Command River Assault Flotilla One and command ship for an Army Brigade. The units make up the joint U.S. Army-Navy Mobile Riverine Force now operating in the Rung Sat Special Zone, a 400 square mile mangrove swamp south of Saigon, and the Mekong Delta. (Official U.S. Navy Photography by PH2 G.B. Hall, USN). October 1967.	XFV-1911-A-10-67
18-0002-016	print 8x10 b&w	A U.S. Navy UH-18 helicopter flies low over the Mekong Delta of South Vietnam. The Seawolves, as the men call themselves fly in support of U.S. Navy River Patrol Boats in the Mekong Delta and Rung Sat Special Zone. April 1968. (Official U.S. Navy Photograph by Lt. T.S. Storck, USN)	XFV-2493-E-4-68